

Abstract

The invention relates to a coding system having a luminescent basic substance and at least one luminescent additive, the possible codings of the coding system being formed by the presence or absence of a luminescent additive and/or the type of additives and/or the number of additives.

Fig. 1